

Abstract

Metal complexes

- 5 The present invention describes new types of metal complexes. Such compounds can be used as functional materials in a series of different types of applications which can be classified within the electronics industry in the widest sense.

The inventive compounds are described by the formulae (1) and (4).